

7 & 8. On either side of the atrium, five storeys of the building slopes backwards, creating an openness at the entry level. Framing the mass is an umbrella space frame.

building are derivatives of this influence".

The floor plate is large with the service cores in the front and rear, with ample natural light filtering in from all four sides. Special amenities like a swimming pool and executive club on the top floor of the building make it more exclusive. Height restraints, common to most urban cities, have also been dealt with efficiently, with sufficient floor-to-floor height for services. Materials have been experimented with- reflective glass and ACP cladding complement the Bisazza tiles on the entire building. "The building is a perfect response to the requirements of IT and the Telecom Industry", concludes Deepak.